New York—WASHINGTON—Paris.

During the Heated Term Store Closes at 5 o'Clock Daily, Except Saturdays—at 1.

Beginning To-day Annual August Sale of Furs and Fur Garments

About  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{3}$  Less Than Regular Prices.

Furs Purchased During This Sale Will Be Stored in Dry Cold Storage and Insured Free of Charge Until October or Later.

THE main point which we wish to emphasize in announcing this Fur Sale is that there is not an old Fur or Fur Garment in the entire stock. Every garment, neckpiece and muff was made up in advance styles to our special order for this August Fur Sale. Nothing newer or better will be shown later when the season opens—an authoritative showing of rare furs, with about one-quarter to one-third taken off the regular prices.

Buying furs is a serious business—it is an investment, something you do not wish to risk your own judgment in unless you are an expert. When you buy fur—no matter what you pay for it—you want to know that it is what it is represented. We guarantee that all the furs in this sale are exactly as represented.

This sale embraces French, Electric, and Near Seal, Black Lynx, Iceland and Alaska Fox (white), Black Fox, Black, Blue, and Natural Wolf, Sable Squirrel, Japanese and Eastern Mink, Black Coney, Russian Hare, Black and Natural Wallaby, Fisher Coon, Natural, Black, and Australian Opossum—in fact, all the most popular furs are represented.

The furs of last year were considered very large, but in the ultra-fashionable sets this season the Muffs are huge, with Straight Throws of 75 inches and even longer. Veritably this is to be a season of furs; besides, many of the advance fall and winter models in French-costumes show a liberal use of fur as trimmings.

For the same Furs and Fur Garments, or Furs and Fur Garments of equal style and value, you will pay from one-quarter to one-third more when the season opens—hence the advantage in buying now.

SHOW GREAT GROWTH

Latin-American Republics
Make Rapid Strides.

DIRECTOR BARRETT REPORTS

Buenos Ayres Conference Hears Head of Bureau Explain Phenomenal Expansion of Countries South of the United States—Increase in Exports and Imports Remarkable.

That the commerce of the twenty Latin American republics south of the United States is increasing with such remarkable strides that it is deserving of particular attention is shown by the special report of Director John Barrett, of the International Bureau of American Republics, to the Fourth Pan-American Conference, now in session at Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic.

After pointing out that the work and correspondence of the bureau have increased 1,000 per cent since the last conference, in 1906, and that it has been an active and useful factor in numerous ways for the promotion of the pan-American friendship, peace, and commerce, the director says: "Some new facts about the foreign commerce of the twenty Latin-American republics will astonish most persons. The latest statistics of the International Bureau of American Republics for this report show that in the year 1909 the twenty republics south of the United States bought and sold in trade with the rest of the world products valued at $2,127,201,000. Assuming that there are 70,000,000 inhabitants in Latin America, this gives a per capita trade of approximately $30. "The foreign commerce of China and Japan combined, with a conservative estimate of their population at 500,000,000, was approximately $1,000,000,000, or only half that of Latin America, giving a per capita of less than $2. This comparison is not in any sense intended as a reflection on Japan or upon China, but simply and solely to emphasize the remarkable importance and progress of Latin America, which are not sufficiently appreciated.

Foreign Trade Increases. "Analyzing still further these instructive and even fascinating figures, we find that this grand total represents an almost phenomenal increase in one decade, as over the average foreign trade for the years 1895-5, of $1,200,000,000. Latin America can well be proud of such a record. It must convince the most hard-headed doubter that the twenty nations which reach in unbroken array from Mexico and Cuba south to Argentina and Chile are indeed worthy of the admiration and study of the rest of the world, and particularly of the United States, which always prides itself on its trade growth and material prosperity.

"The total of Latin-American foreign commerce for 1909 divided into exports and imports shows a notable balance of trade in favor of Latin-America. The exports were valued at $1,232,102,000; the imports at $98,138,000, or a favorable balance of $333,964,000. "The United States bought from and sold to Latin America in 1909 products valued at $89,302,000. The average for the three years of 1907, 1908, and 1909, was $88,569,000. Now contrast this total with the average of a decade ago, or for 1898, 1897, and 1896, and we find the latter was only $29,273,000. In other words, the exchange of trade between the United States and her sister republics more than doubled itself in approximately ten years.

"Taking $60,000,000 as high-water mark of the trade Latin America and the United States exchanged last year, what becomes of the complaint of the unfed, formed men that the United States is being outstripped rapidly by Germany and France? When the United States buys, as she does, one-fourth of all Latin America sells to the world, and sell to it one-fourth of all it buys, no one can logically say that the United States and Latin America are losing their commerce with each other through the competition of Europe, and that the International Bureau of American Republics is falling in its work of making North and South America better known to each other."

AMERICANS IN EUROPE. Some on Business Missions, Others Travel for Pleasure.

Berlin, July 31.—Herman A. Metz, ex-conductor of New York, returned on Wednesday from a two days' visit to the Kaiser's sister, the Grand Duchess Charlotte, of Saxe-Meiningen. The Grand Duchess expressed keen interest in the defunct scheme for an American exhibition in Berlin, of which Mr. Metz was an active promoter.

Mr. Metz describes the Grand Duchess as a charming hostess and a most interesting woman, who has a special liking for America and Americans. She told Mr. Metz that she longed to visit America, if only to get some American Beauty roses, of which she is very fond. Mr. Metz tried to obtain some for her, but found that it was impossible in Germany. The reason is that these roses are quarantined in Germany because of the fear of importing the destructive San Jose scale.

Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock is on his way home after a hitting week in Europe, most of which he devoted to the Fashion Play at Oberammergau. For two days he was there and for the greatest part of the other five days he was traveling to Oberammergau and back. In five days of last week over 20,000 witnessed the performance, a majority of those present being Americans. Munich, Nuremberg, and other stopping places are flooded with tourists.

James B. Reynolds, of the American tariff board, is studying the new tariff from a German viewpoint, especially as to its effects on the German textile industry. Before his arrival in Berlin Mr. Reynolds visited manufacturers in Chemnitz, Plauen, and Elberfeld. He says he found the business men generally received him hospitably and assisted him in his researches. The irritation caused by the publication by Congress of data which were furnished confidentially to American officials appears to have passed away.

Another official who is studying the industrial conditions here is J. B. Osborne, chief of the bureau of trade returns. He has gone to Brussels after several conferences with members of the German government.

Charles P. Taft, wife, and daughter, who have been sightseeing in the old cities of South Germany, visited Munich, Nuremberg, and Dresden, where they were guests of honor.

Ex-Gov. Myron T. Herrick, of Ohio, with his wife, has been spending a few days here sightseeing. Secretary Laughlin, of the Embassy, gave a dinner in their honor on Monday. Mr. Herrick declined to talk politics. He motored through South Germany for Oberammergau on Wednesday.

Goodwood race week has been socially dull. Among the Americans present were Messadems Chauncey, Miller, Graham, and W. B. Leeds with Lady Paget. Mrs. Leeds and Lady Paget have taken a villa at Trouville for the season.

Cowes week, beginning Monday, promises to be brilliant despite the absence of royalty. A large number of American yachts are anchored off Cowes. George Gould's Atlanta is absent for the first time in years. Mr. Cochrane's schooner yacht Westward is the center of yachtsmen's attention after its performance at Kiel. The Westward will again race with the Kaiser's Meteor, England having nothing capable of meeting the Westward except the ancient Cleopatra. The Westward is expected to sweep all the prizes in her class at Cowes, as she did at Kiel.

Picture Plays Presented. Lyman Howe's Films Please Columbia Audience. An audience as large as it was enthusiastic saw the first presentation of the new series of Lyman H. Howe's motion pictures at the Columbia last night. That the pictures were appreciated was evident from the frequent applause which followed the presentation of each film. Lyman Howe's motion pictures have always created a certain standard of excellence. His pictures of nature are very nearly perfect, and his humorous scenes are selected with a view to pleasing without being too bolsterous. The addition of the sounds which would naturally accompany the events pictured on the screen add a great deal to the artistic value, as well as the pleasure of the pictures.

The sound effects are well worked out, those in the last film—the testing of armor plate and the showing of the actual impact of a projectile—being particularly clever.

The noise of the waves, of the crowds in India, and the rattle of the accoutrements of the cavaliers in the other pictures also added a great deal to the enjoyment of the films.

The entertainment opened with the presentation of a trip over the lake of the Four Cantons in Switzerland, the background of the Swiss Alps making a particularly pleasing picture. This was followed by a humorous subject. Other films that pleased greatly were those showing the drill of the troops at Fort Myer, the Military Academy, and the Naval Academy, the actions of wild birds in their native haunts, and some views of sensational logging incidents in the Italian Alps.

The management announced that the films of the funeral of King Edward would be a feature of the entertainment to be given next Sunday night.

Riding habits are decidedly shorter than formerly. Hard hats, round and rather flat, have entirely supplanted the high silk hat for the morning ride.

UNEASY MOMENTS FOR CONGREGATION

All Get "Stuck" on Their Pews at Church Service.

Winchester, Va., July 31.—"Has anybody here seen Turner?" was the question propounded by Rev. W. J. Smith, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, to his congregation after the regular Sunday service. Unfortunately, nobody had, and thereby hangs a tale.

Mr. Turner is a painter. Not a landscape artist like the illustrious scholar of the same name, but a thoroughly competent hand with the white lead and varnish brush. Mr. Turner's Winchester masterpiece was perpetrated last week. He was engaged by the church trustees to give the pews and pulpit a needed new coat of varnish, and for six days he toiled with his brush. On the seventh day he rested—or started to rest—while the edifice was thronged for the Sunday service.

When Rev. W. J. Smith had concluded his sermon, he announced, "We will now rise and sing hymn 482." Then the trouble started. An elderly deacon in the front pew started to rise first when a noise "like something tearing" caused him to resume his seat hurriedly. Similar noises came from all parts of the church, and it was with great hesitancy that the congregation arose.

Mr. Turner had stuck the congregation for his painting job!

The still wet varnish held fast, and it was only after considerable squirming and twisting that the parishioners got to their feet. The spirit was willing, but the varnish was strong and their clothing weak.

Rev. Mr. Smith ruined his Prince Albert by rubbing against the varnish on the pulpit, while the damage to the "go-to-meeting" clothes of the parishioners was considerable.
